New website launch

Pipe Bands Australia has launched a new-look website with additional resources to raise engagement with the movement and advance activities around the nation.

The new website is part of an overhaul of PBA communications and member management system began by national management committee following last year's biennial conference. Along with the website, PBA now has a facebook page and produces several newsletters a year to assist in communicating with all bands and members.

National management committee is now assessing several software package options for management and access by bands and branch officials of member and band records, player registrations and clearances.

Resources and information will continue to be added on the website and aid players and members in gaining skills and recognition through Australian Pipe Band College examinations.

The website now also allows for quick contact with national management committee band branch officials.
